Son Of Poet Paroled In Arms Case

Two men, one the 19-year-old adopted son of Louis Untermeyer, the poet, were paroled in their attorney's custody in Felony Court in New York when arraigned on charges of violating the Sullivan Law in connection with a large cache of arms and ammunition intended for shipment to Palestine. The cache was seized by the police.

Joseph Untermeyer was represented in court by Paul O'Dwyer, brother of the Mayor, who told the court that he deplored the United States embargo on arms for the Jews in Palestine.

He asserted that the Sullivan Law had been enacted "to prevent gangsterism", adding that "these guns were to be sent to Palestine to protect people in their homes."

"It is a shame and a travesty for us to use the Sullivan Law against these defendants," he told Magistrate Peter M. Horn. "It is a sad commentary that we have an arms embargo. The two defendants were only doing what every freedom-loving person should be doing."

Young Untermeyer and his companion, Isaiah Warshaw, 30, a watchmaker of 15 Mill Street, were arrested in the top floor loft at 223 West Twenty-eighth Street after police had uncovered a Navy duffle bag containing six rifles in a freight elevator in the building.

It was learned that an all-day investigation of a pile of bundles prepared for shipment to Tel Aviv and other places in Palestine had disclosed nearly 300 revolvers, 100 rifles, six light machine guns, hand grenades, knives and several thousand rounds of ammunition.

Untermeyer, who described himself as a messenger living at 600 West End Avenue, and Warshaw ... export owners of Smolovitch Brothers, who deal in furs.

The defendants said they were members of the Zionist Youth Movement but protested to the police that they were wrapping only food and clothing for needy in Palestine and insisted they knew nothing about the hidden firearms.

Prior to their appearance in Felony Court, they declined to answer questions in the lineup at Police Headquarters.

Magistrate Horn adjourned hearings on the charge until May 14 after Assistant District Attorney Edward Donlevy said that police wished to continue their investigation. It was understood that members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were cooperating with detectives on the case, but no com-

BRITISH CATHOLIC PAPER WARNS OF ENMITY

The Roman Catholic weekly journal, The Tablet, of London, England, called on Palestine Zionists to show greater consideration for Christian Holy places in Palestine in the interests of Jewish minorities in Christian countries.

The journal reported that the Catholic Archbishop of Haifa had gone to see the Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini to seek assurance that holy places would be respected and had received a sympathetic hearing.

"The Jews of Palestine for their part would do well to appreciate the importance for minorities of their race in Christian countries of showing an equal solicitude," The Tablet stated. "The Arabs have no such consideration to restrain them but the Zionists, who have latterly shown singularly little concern for the way in which their activities in Palestine can rebound against non-Zionist Jews elsewhere, should pause to remember how important for Jews of Europe it is today to be on the best of terms with their Christian neighbors."

Einstein Sees Peril In Rearming

Dr. Albert Einstein, in a message read at the presentation of the One World Awards for 1948 at Carnegie Hall, in New York, denounced the "proposed militarization of the nation," and said it would serve to create an immediate threat of war.

Dr. Einstein was not able to be present to receive his award, and his message was read by Cord ... thirty-two countries. The other two recipients of the awards were Dore Schary, executive vice-president of R.K.O. in charge of production, for his contribution in producing films such as "Crossfire" and "Berlin Express", and William L. Shirer, writer and radio commentator, for his contributions in stimulating world-minded concepts in his broadcasts. The One World Awards were established in 1944 in memory of Wendell L. Willkie.

In his message Dr. Einstein said that the occasion caused him more pain than pleasure because "all of us who are concerned for peace and the triumph of reason and justice must today be keenly aware how small an influence reason and honest good will exert upon events in the political field."

"In this time of decisions so heavy with fate," said Dr. Einstein, "what we must say to our fellow citizens seems above all to be this: Where belief in the omnipotence of physical force gets the upper hand in political life, this force takes on a life of its own and proves stronger than the men who think to use force as a tool. The proposed militarization of the nation not only immediately threatens us with war; it will also destroy the democratic spirit and the dignity of the individual in our land. The assertion that events abroad force us to arm is wrong; we must combat it with all our strength. Actually, our own rearmament, through reaction of other nations to it, will bring about that very situation on which its advocates seek to base their proposals.

"There is only one path to peace and security—the path of supranational organization. One-sided armament on a national basis only heightens the general uncertainty and confusion without being an effective protection."

Silver Urges Force For Partition

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, spokesman for the Jewish Agency for Palestine, served notice on the Political and Security Committee of the U. N. General Assembly that a Jewish State would become a reality on May 16, the day after the termination of the British mandate, irrespective of further United Nations action to carry out partition.

The only threat to the existence of the future Jewish state "will come from the neighboring Arab states, who are now conspiring to overthrow it," he said.

"The crux of the issue before the General Assembly," Dr. Silver added, "is not how to implement the (partition) resolution of Nov. 29, 1947, but how to enjoin and prevent the Arab states, whose representatives are seated around this table, from violating their Charter obligations and from defeating the will of this international tribunal."

Dr. Silver said that to a large extent "partition has already become a political and economic reality in Palestine," and implied that Jews and Arabs were two separate peoples and that postponing partition would only "exacerbate the situation and prolong the present agony," and the United Nations would be compelled "inexorably" to return to partition.

"If force must be used to impose trusteeship, which admittedly is not a permanent and final solution, and settles nothing, why, in all reason, should it not be used to enforce a decision which has already been arrived at by the United Nations after careful and thorough-going investigation?" he asked.

Dr. Silver said that "a large degree of political, economic and social separation has existed between Arabs and Jews in Palestine for years" and that since the passage of the partition resolution last November this process had been greatly accelerated, owing to

Pianist, 20, Wins Big Two-Year Contest

Seymour Lipkin, 20-year-old pianist who makes his home in Detroit, Mich., hit the musical jackpot at Carnegie Hall, in New York, when he won the national award of the Rachmaninoff Fund's nation-wide piano contest. Mr. Lipkin was named the winner after competing with four other young American pianists in the finals of a competition that has run for two years and that has canvassed talent in every region of the land.

Mr. Lipkin's prize will probably amount to the largest ever won by a pianist in any contest in American history, if not by any musician in any competition. It is nothing less than a big-time career under the joint management of Columbia Artists, Inc., and National Concerts and Artists Corporation, the two largest concert managements in the United States.

It was learned that probably the first engagement Mr. Lipkin will get will be an appearance on a famous musical program on a national radio network. It is also understood that more than ten of the nation's principal orchestras have already agreed to give the winner of the Rachmaninoff Fund contest appearances as soloists at regular concert fees. In addition, Victor has guaranteed the winner a recording contract, and there is assurance of a flock of recital dates. Mr. Lipkin's earnings in the first year of his victory should run between $25,000 and $50,000.

Winner of a special national award was Gary Graffman, 19-year-old New York pianist, who will receive a Carnegie Hall recital debut next season. Honorable mention was awarded to Grace Harrington, 20-year-old resident of Palisades Park, N. J.

The awards were announced by ... president of ... concert at which the five young finalists played as soloist with the NBC Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Fritz Reiner. Other contestants were Ruth Geiger, 24, who lives in New York and who was born in Vienna, and Jeanne Therrien, whose home is in Port Chester, N. Y.

It seemed to this reporter, said Howard Taubman, in the New York Times, that the outcome, judging by the performances, would be a close thing between Mr. Lipkin and Mr. Graffman. Mr. Lipkin, who was heard in the first movement of Tchaikovsky's Concerto No. 1, in B flat minor, was the more poised, the more controlled and sensitive musician. His playing had style, feeling and rather surprising breadth and maturity.

Mr. Graffman, however, may turn out in the end to be a worthy rival for Mr. Lipkin in the years to come. His potentialities are enormous. Playing two movements of Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2, he disclosed surging power, a wide gamut of dynamics and a tone that had quality throughout the range. The one thing that militated against him, it seemed to one listener, was the tension and headstrong drive of his playing.

U.N. Gets Alleged Secret Papers On British Help To Arabs

A memorandum based on alleged secret documents purporting to show British condonement of the infiltration of Arab forces into Palestine and other anti-Jewish policies was presented to the United Nations General Assembly by the Nation Associates, a group affiliated with the magazine, The Nation. The forty-eight-page printed booklet was built around seven secret intelligence reports, said to have been issued by British units in the Middle East, and it cited a number of other communications, one of which was marked "top secret."

In the introduction to the memorandum, Freda Kirchway, president of The Nation Associates, said her organization "presents the facts in this memorandum as essential to a wise and just decision. An examination of the facts will show that the present violence in Palestine results from:

"1. British sabotage of partition . . . to insure British base rights in Palestine in perpetuity, as well as to safeguard British oil, trade and military interests in the Middle East.

"2. Britain's alliance with the Arab league."

She said that if partition gave way to any of several plans assuring Arab dominance in Palestine, Britain, by "arrangement" with the League, would receive base rights in Haifa, the Negeb and Galilee.

The memorandum was circulated to delegates at the Assembly's special session on Palestine, apparently in the hope that one of them would introduce it in the debate. No indication was given as to how the documents had been obtained.

In sections titled "British Know Every Arab Invasion Plan" and "Arab Legion Cannot Move Without British Signal," extensive intelligence reports are reproduced that, if authentic, indicate British knowledge of the whereabouts, leadership, strength and armament of Arab units already inside Palestine. None of these alleged reports shows that the British commanders actually knew of specific movements in advance.

Most of the documents are dated between Jan. 1 and April 1, 1948. "Intelligence Summary No. 6," attributed to the North Palestine District and dated Jan. 21, said 500 Syrian volunteers were concentrating in the "Homs area" for border skirmishes. "The Syrian Government would later apologize to HMG (His Majesty's Government) on the grounds of youth and irresponsibility," said the alleged secret report.

About two dozen excerpts are given from "Fortnightly Intelligence Newsletters" Nos. 60 to 63, inclusive, purported to have been issued by the headquarters of British troops in Palestine. One of these estimated the newly arrived Arab forces at 10,000.

"The Arab leaders are anxious not to aggravate the British in any way," it said, "but the question is whether so many men, possibly 10,000 of them at present in this country, with their bitter hatred of the Jews and their excitable character, whose sole raison d'etre is the killing of Jews, can hold them-part to the "rapid disintegration of the central mandatory regime and the creation of a vacuum in authority."

"The virtual partition now developing in Palestine has both a functional and a territorial aspect," he added. "The Jewish community of Palestine is already exercising unchallenged authority in many of the most important branches of public activity.

"In matters of defense, the Jews are entirely autonomous and self-dependent. Their military organization alone is responsible for the defense of the community, both urban and rural, and is rapidly assuming the structure and spirit of a regular military force.

"In some parts of the country, the Jewish military command exercises administrative functions as well. Thus the area of Negeb (southern Palestine) contained within the area of the Jewish State depends entirely for its services on the facilities provided by the Jewish command of that area. In Tel Aviv, Jerusalem, throughout the coastal plain and in other areas, the security instructions issued by Jewish military commanders are accepted by the population.

"There are many essential services in which the Jews have always exercised partial autonomy and which are now becoming increasingly centralized under Jewish control. The health, education and social services in the Jewish community depends entirely on Jewish resources and administration.

"The Jewish central authority has already begun to collect taxes from the Jewish community. Jewish civil servants in the mandatory administration are responsible to the instructions of the Jewish Agency with regard to their plans for remaining at their posts or otherwise."

During March, seven transports of Youth Aliyah children, totalling some two thousand in all, arrived in Palestine from Cyprus. Last month 461 certificates were received for children from the British Zone of Germany and the Paris Office of Youth Aliyah also reports increased activities.

Girls Of Three Faiths Learn Amity

Dr. George N. Shuster, president of Hunter College, in New York, described how a Catholic girl, a graduate of the college in February, 1947, was interviewed recently by the head of a firm for a job she very much wanted.

The prospective employer asked her religion. "Why, has that got anything to do with my getting the position?" she said.

"It does," replied the interviewer. "We don't hire Jewish girls."

The girl stood up. "I'm sorry, but then I wouldn't care to work here," she said and walked out.

Dr. Shuster said he heard about this incident not from the girl, but from the man himself, who was very much moved by her attitude.

This is one example of the feeling that has developed among students as the result of activities in the Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House for Hunter College.

There, at 47 East Sixty-fifth Street, three short blocks from the college, the homes of the late President Roosevelt and his mother now serve as a place where students of all faiths work, play and talk together.

The project was Dr. Shuster's idea. He long had it in mind. When the chance came to buy the houses for $50,000, a group of men and women of all religions, inspired by Dr. Shuster, decidede to raise the funds.

A. E. Horn, John Burke, Joseph Day and others put their shoulders to the financial wheel and came up with the money. The late President wrote that he was delighted to have the houses put to such use. He donated the furnishings of one large room, a library for which he also gave the books.

Now the former city home of the Roosevelts serves as headquarters for Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clubs, where the girls study, meet, hold dances, read, play pingpong and discuss the affairs of the world.

"We felt that this way we could get an inter-faith relationship much more naturally than by preaching," explained Dr. Shuster. "If young men and women learn how to play, work and talk together, there is no further point in discussing barriers."

He said that in five years two main results have been noticeable. "The first, is that participation in a common effort does not weaken any young person's allegiance to his own group but even intensifies that feeling," said said. "And the second, is we've found out that working and playing together is demonstrably the only valid form of intercultural education. In this way the students acquire respect and liking for each other as human beings."

Malka Is Partisan Mascot

Malka S. has the reputation of being the best protected young lady in all Italy. She has a body guard consisting of some of the best Jewish underground fighters who battled the Nazis with partisan units all over Europe. Malka, a shy, blonde haired, blue-eyed miss of three years, is the mascot of these ex-guerillas, combat veterans and ghetto defenders who are now living in Italy waiting for the chance to go to Palestine. Hardened and toughened by the war years, they are gentle and soft whenever Malka comes romping into their presence.

The former partisans are living at a special home maintained for them near Anzio by the Joint Distribution Committee. It is one of five such havens for the former partisans that the JDC has opened in various sections of Italy. Originally opened by the Organization of Jewish Partisans, Veterans and Ghetto Fighters, the center cares for Partisans en route to Palestine. As such, the organization was recently renamed Partisan Hechalus, because its members intend becoming Halusim, pioneers in Palestine.

Malka was a sickly youngster when she arrived at Anzio. But the JDC child care program, which assured her of a nutritious diet and the medical care she needed, slowly helped her grow strong. Today, Malka romps happily in the green fields near the Anzio home where the warm Italian sun is tanning her chubby little body. But until she leaves with her family and her "bodyguard" she will continue to require medical attention and rich food so that there will be no question of her arriving in Palestine in the best of health.

TRAFFIC TRAGEDIES

More school-age boys and girls lose their lives in traffic accidents than by any other single cause. Public safety officers believe that the best way to combat this terrible toll of young life is by intensive education of both children and adults in common sense safety habits. Each year in Canada some 15,000 children die in traffic accidents, many of which could be prevented by proper training of pedestrians and motorists. Parents, drivers and all public-spirited citizens have a responsibility in helping to save our children's lives.

POLES BACK HAGANAH FUND

Adolph Berman, president of the Polish Jewish Central Committee, told a press conference at Warsaw, Poland, that 80,000,000 zlotys ($200,000) had been collected in Poland in the last few weeks for the Haganah force in Palestine.

The drive in Poland to raise funds for the Haganah now has official Government support. At a meeting of the Warsaw Jewish community, a spokesman for the Government said Poland could not remain indifferent to the struggle in Palestine. He described this struggle as a Jewish fight against feudal Arab gangs incited by Anglo-Saxon imperialism.

250 Units Work Against Bias

Units of the National Conference of Christians and Jews were busy in 250 American cities "organized in committees against subversive organizations of one kind or another," Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president emeritus of Vassar College and general secretary of the conference, told 700 persons at a luncheon of the rayon division of the conference in New York. The national body seeks $2,500,000 in funds. Dr. MacCracken said workers in the field of adult education were receiving from the radio, the press and magazines, "unexampled aid and support."

John J. Bennett, deputy mayor, compared discrimination in American society to cancer in the human body, saying, "discrimination in America causes bad health and if allowed to go on unchecked it may destroy America."

Comdr. Joshua L. Goldberg of the Navy Chaplain's Corps declared: "Diversity from without need not spell diversity from within. The world is filled with confusion. Democracy is our only hope."

The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of Marble Collegiate Reformed Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, said: "One of the great problems facing American business men today is tension. The whole country has it. We are so tense and emotionally unstrung, we cannot think. The patron saint of America is Saint Vitus."

Mother And Daughter, Nazi Victims, Meet By Chance

After eight years of fear, Mrs. Mala Kajsman, 50 years old, formerly of Poland, knows peace, having been reunited in New York with her daughter, Dina, 26, whom she had believed dead in Germany.

Mrs. Kajsman arrived in America three weeks ago aboard the Marine Jumper with three daughters who had survived three years in the Oswiecim (Auschwitz) Concentration Camp and two years in the Kielce ghetto. They were sent by the United Service for New Americans to its reception center, the Marseilles Hotel, 103rd Street and Broadway, says the New York Times.

There, among hundreds of displaced persons, Mrs. Kajsman tried to check rumors about Dina. One refuge said that Dina was on her way to the United States. From that day, Mrs. Kajsman and her daughters scrutinized each new arrival.

One night Mrs. Kajsman and Malka, 20, went for a walk while Sarah, 18, and Branja, 13, stayed on the center's steps with a photograph of their sister. A taxi drove up and a girl, a man and a child emerged. The girls looked at the picture and weren't sure it was Dina but they spoke to her.

Dina was waiting in the hotel lobby with a crowd of refugees when her mother returned.

"I can't believe it myself," Mrs. Kajsman said. "It's wonderful; it's wonderful."

And she embraced her daughter's husband, Samul Major Wiesenfield, 30, formerly of the Polish Underground, and her grandchild, a beautiful, dark-eyed 18-month-old girl.

Mother and daughter recalled Mrs. Kajsman's four children and husband who died in Oswiecim, her own selection for death in the camp's ovens, the daughter's escape five days before liberation, the trip to America from a displaced persons' camp and the unexpected reunion.

Dina told about the morning when the Nazis lined up the Oswiecim prisoners and began picking each tenth person for the crematory. Mrs. Kajsman was picked and marched to an enclosure with walls six feet high, but with gaps a foot and a half high at the bottom.

Dina saw her mother bending down for a last look at her, left the line, ran to the wall, grabbed her mother's hair and pulled her through a gap. They took their places in the line again and the Nazis passed them over.

Five days before liberation, the Nazis were preparing to shoot everyone and Dina managed to escape, without a chance to explain to her mother. Dina finally reached Poland, where she met and married Mr. Wiesenfeld. Mrs. Kajsman and the other daughters went to a displaced persons camp in Germany and then came to New York, while Dina traveled to Paris before obtaining an American visa.

Now, they are making plans together. They want to work and build a home. "That is the main thing," Mrs. Kajsman said, "a home."

N.Y. NEGROES "ADOPT" JEWISH CHILD IN FRANCE

A Jewish child in France, permanently adopted by thirty-five Negro children who live in Jamaica, Queens will be supplied regularly with clothing and gifts. The child aided is Monique Aronek, a 13-year-old refugee who received shelter from the foster parents, division of the Labor Zionist Committee for Relief and Rehabilitation, Inc., of 673 Broadway. She lives in Cessieu, France. So far, the Jamaica children have sent her three packages.

The Jamaica children were taken to the organization office in appreciation of the interest they had shown in the French child and to impress upon them that need is greater than considerations of race, religion and nationality, agency officials said.

Barbara Slade, also 13, said the benefactors plan to send a package a month to their friend in France. Letters have been exchanged, and translations of Monique's were circulated throughout the Jamaica neighborhood.

Rabbi And Bride Marry In Street By Ancient Rite

For the first time in the memories of the oldest guests and rabbis attending, a wedding ceremony was performed in the ancient orthodox Jewish tradition in Brooklyn, N.Y. According to one of the guests present, the rites, which are performed out of doors under the stars, are enacted "once every fifty years in the New York area."

In the manner prescribed by centuries-old Jewish laws, Rabbi Saul David Margulies, of the Progressive Congregation Anshei Poilin, 2864 West Twenty-first Street, Coney Island, Brooklyn, married Miss Sylvia Steinberg, of 21 Pitt Street, at sunset in the middle of Twenty-first Street in front of the Congregation's synagogue.

Rabbi Maurice Horowitz, of 542 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, conducted the ritual in a steady light rain as 300 friends of the couple looked on. The ceremony started at 6.20 p.m., just before sunset, in accordance with Orthodox laws, and lasted until 6.40 p.m., the time when the stars in the sky were deemed visible.

The rite is based on Jewish tenets which were universally practiced in the Middle Ages and in Eastern European countries in recent times. The sky is a symbol of brightness, good luck and freedom. The symbolism of the stars is taken from the first chapter of Deuteronomy: "The Lord your God hath multiplied you, and, behold, ye are this day as the stars of heaven for multitude."

Ben Kirschner, former president and now secretary of the Congregation Anshei Poilin, said that he had heard of the ceremony, but had never witnessed it. He said he believed that it was performed in New York only once every half century. He said that both parties wanted the ancient rite because of their deep feeling for the religion.

The principals are descendants of European rabbinical families, both of whom suffered persecution and imprisonment at the hands of the Nazis in World War II. Rabbi Margulies's first wife and eight-year-old son were gassed by Hitler's troops in Poland. Miss Steinberg's mother and a sister with seven children were murdered in Czechoslovakia.

A rabbi in Warsaw for fifteen years and imprisoned there when the Germans moved in, Rabbi Margulies escaped from a concentration camp by posing as a laborer. He made his way to Shanghai, where he operated a food kitchen for refugees until he came to the United States early in 1947. After a short stay with Chicago relatives who arranged his trip, he became rabbi of the Congregation Anshei Poilin in June of last year.

Mr. Kirschner explained that the rabbi never talks of the war. Times and dates were conspicuously absent in his story of the rabbi. Mr. Kirschner said that what facts are known had been discovered bit by bit, and that he thought the complete story never would be known.

Miss Steinberg's story began when she was imprisoned in Czechoslovakia in May, 1944. After eleven months of enforced labor she was liberated by United States forces while being sent from Auschwitz, Austria, to a munitions factory at Altenberg, Germany. An uncle, Rabbi Samuel Steinberg, of 21 Pitt Street, brought her to New York in November, 1946. She and Rabbi Margulies met a year ago.

The preliminary rituals started at 4 p.m. when friends and guests began gathering at the synagogue. At 5 p.m. a five-piece orchestra supplied music for singing and dancing. Contrary to usual customs, dancing couples were not mixed. Women danced with women and men danced with men.

At 6.15 p.m. the company filed out into Twenty-first Street, which had been blocked off to motor traffic by a six-man police detail under Sergeant Adolph Poole, of the 60th Precinct. A blue canopy was held over the wedding party to ward off the rain.

After the vows and prayers the married couple and guests repaired to the dining hall for the wedding feast.

Holland To Admit 100 DP Youths

An agreement between the Netherlands Government and the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS) for the admission of Jewish D. P. children of Germany to Holland for vocational training and ultimate citizenship has been concluded, it was announced in New York by Isaac L. Asofsky, Executive Director of the Society.

The announcement followed the arrival of Arthur J. U. Cohen, director of the HIAS office in Rotterdam, for instructions at HIAS World Headquarters. Mr. Asofsky reported that the agreement will permit HIAS to select and bring to Holland an initial group of 100 Jewish youths from the D.P. camps of Germany. After five years' residence in Holland, he pointed out, the rehabilitated young people are to be given Netherlands citizenship.

Mr. Cohen, who was a leading figure in the Dutch resistance movement, now directs an art pottery school in Rotterdam, and the children brought in under the agreement with the Netherlands Government will be trained to become craftsmen in pottery and ceramics. HIAS will make all necessary provisions for the children, ranging in age from 12 to 17, and will cover the cost of their transportation.

Butcher Braves Icy Waters To Save Boy's Life

WINS DOW AWARD

LAURENT TREPANIER

OF ST. EUSTACHE, QUE.,

swims to rescue of floundering youngster

Seven-year-old Maurice Champagne and his chum were having a lot of fun with the old baby carriage. But, on the bridge which spans St. Eustache's Petite Rivière, an argument arose as to who should push the pram. During the scuffle that followed, Maurice lost his balance and toppled into the river. He disappeared and then came to the surface . . . floundering helplessly among the large chunks of drifting ice.

SEES BOY FROM TRUCK

Laurent Trepanier, on his delivery rounds, took in the situation at a glance. Stopping his truck, he ran down the bank and leaped into the 20-foot-deep river. Finally, after swimming some distance through the ice-cold water, he reached the drowning boy and managed to swim back with him to shore. He then drove the little fellow to his home where he was given medical treatment for shock and exposure.

This man's actions — combining courage, presence of mind and unselfishness — were responsible for saving the life of a young Canadian boy. We are proud to pay tribute to Laurent Trepanier of St. Eustache, Quebec, through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Laurent Trepanier wasted no time. Leaping from his truck he ran down the bank . . . and in a few seconds was in the icy Petite Rivière . . . swimming towards the drowning youngster.

Chilled to the bone himself, the gallant butcher brought the boy to shore . . . carried him up the bank to the truck . . . and then drove him home and called the doctor.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

TRAINING THE MIND

Canada spends more than $25,000,000 annually for the upkeep of mental hospitals and the cost of mental ill-health in this country is estimated conservatively at $120,000,000 each year. Leading psychiatrists believe that much of this mental illness could be prevented by proper childhood training. Parents and teachers should attempt to understand the children in their care and train their minds to cope with the problems they will meet as adults.

150,000 Young Need Homes

Aid to 150,000 Jewish children in Europe was described in Paris, France, as one of the top priority items of the American Joint Distribution Committee's program.

Miss Amalia Igel, child care consultant to the Committee, said at a press conference that there were only 170,000 Jewish children under eighteen, compared to 1,500,000 in Europe before the war.

The Committee is supporting 215 homes sheltering 15,500 children. The rest are being cared for by a special nutritional, medical, clothing and child guidance program.

Miss Igel emphasized the importance of moving 40,000 children from displaced persons' camps. About 3,600 have been moved from Cyprus to Palestine. Canada is taking 1,000 orphans under eighteen and Australia is taking 800. South Africa plans to admit 400. France has permitted 1,000 children to enter France in transit for overseas homes.

The emigration service of the American Joint Distribution Committee has aided 5,500 European Jews to emigrate to new homes overseas, it was announced at the conference.

Herbert Katzki, acting director of the emigration service, reported that 45,000 Jewish emigrants had been helped since 1946. He said 80,000, exclusive of Jews in displaced persons' camps, were waiting to go to Palestine.

The largest group to leave this year consisted of 2,384 who entered Palestine under the British quota. The second biggest group of 1,303 was admitted to the United States under the terms of President Truman's directive on immigration.

Lending weight to the argument that Jews could not be set loose in Germany and Austria, Samuel Dallob, Samuel Haber and Harold Trobe, JDC directors in the British and the American zones in Germany and in Austria, respectively, all cited examples of anti-Semitism that they said was still strong in the two countries. Mr. Dallob said twenty-seven Jewish cemeteries were desecrated in the British zone of Germany last year.

The three men said the occupation authorities had taken a strong stand against anti-Semitism but were having trouble stamping it out because of its undercover nature.

For Italy there is no possibility of integration because a serious unemployment problem already exists for the native population, Louis Horowitz, JDC director in that country, reported.

Despite low morale no mass unauthorized movements away from camps have taken place, it was reported, although nobody was willing to predict what would happen if the displaced persons problem continued much longer.

The Rev. Dr. Jonah B. Wise, national chairman of the United Jewish Appeal for $250,000,000, in a trans-Atlantic radio talk over the American Broadcasting Company network from Paris to New York, asserted that despite new disappointments the Jewish people in Europe had not lost their courage.

He emphasized, however, that a greater measure of help was needed for the Jews of Europe and Palestine "to see them through the critical months that lie ahead." Dr. Wise, who went overseas to attend a meeting of officers and representatives of the Joint Distribution Committee in Europe, said that considerable progress had been achieved in the rehabilitation of the Jews. But there was still a long way to go before the Jewish people could attain freedom and security.

In emphasizing the need for widespread response in the United States to the United Jewish Appeal, Dr. Wise said:

"The need for transferring tens of thousands of Jews to Palestine this year is one of the major factors in the alleviation of the Jewish situation in Europe. Every observer here agrees that no solution of the problem in Europe is possible without the assurance of immediate, large-scale immigration to Palestine and the expanded development of the Jewish homeland."

The Blue-White box of the Jewish National Fund has been a symbol of Zionist hopes and dreams for nearly fifty years and has been instrumental in redeeming many thousands of dunams of land in Eretz Israel.
It is our duty in this historic period of Jewish history, to give the J.N.F. box a place of honour in our homes. Coins should be placed in the Blue box on the occasion of the lighting of the Sabbath and Holiday candles, social evenings, family gatherings, birthdays and other "simchas."

In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Rita Pullan Wecksler who passed away May 4, 1947.

Thoughts On Immortality

"If a man die, may he live again?"—(Job 14:14)

The Yizkor hour is a goodly time to reflect upon some reasons for our belief in the survival of life. "If a man die" is a question that is old as death and as new as the newest grave. Of one thing we are certain in the uncertainty of life, that is the reality and majesty of death and there is no "if" about it. From the day of our birth we commence a pilgrimage to the grave. And death comes to all. It is the great leveler and makes members of all in the community of sorrow.

But is the grave the end of life? If this be the truth, then Shakespeare is right when he views life thus: "It is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." However, this sacred memorial hour, as well as all other ceremonials honoring our dear departed, affirm our belief in life beyond life. How do we come to this belief in immortality?

To begin with, the idea of immortality is universal. There is hardly a people that is without such a faith. It is old as life itself. The savage in the heart of Africa affirms it even as Sir Oliver Lodge has done in our day. This belief in life after death is instinctive with the human race and instinct is a great compass factor in life. It is by instinct that the birds sense the first coming of winter and hence fly southward.

Added to the fact that the idea of immortality is universal, is the fact that the greatest minds of the human race have always posited it. One could spend some time in listing names of philosophers, sages, and scientists who have propounded this great idea through the centuries from time immemorial. We need but mention such man of stature as Socrates, Plato, Maimonides, Henri Bergson, William James, Sir Oliver Lodge, and the great Dr. William Osler.

We are driven to the belief in life beyond life by the fact that here on earth life is woefully incomplete. Because of the many wrongs that are never righted here on earth, our conscience demands a cosmic justice, a realm where justice will be completed and where the good will receive their merited reward so often denied them in their earthly pilgrimage. Much of our labor when death summons us seems unfinished. Thus the poet in the midst of writing his poem is called away; the author in the midst of his creative work is summoned by death. No creative mind believes that his work is thus ended. The songs that are unsung, the poems that are unwritten, these can find fulfillment in another realm.

Our love, too, asserts immortality. Love knows no death. When we stand by the graveside of a dear departed, the inner voice of love cries out: this is not finality. To the noblest love there is no death. To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die. Human affection can only speak of the eternity of life.

Our belief in immortality is derived from our experience of God. The Eternal, who rules this universe through loving-kindness, surely cannot permit the extinction of life personality as though it were the blowing out of a mere candle. With the Psalmist we trustfully thus declare: "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I shall not fear evil for thou art with me."

Man, possessed of mental capacities, moral convictions, and aesthetic yearning, is surely destined for some higher realm. The body which is the house of the spirit returns to the earth but the spirit returns unto God who gave it. Therefore our belief in the survival of life is reasonable though we have not as yet direct evidence. But the absence of evidence is no proof of the absence of immortality. For one thing, immortality has not been disproved! All that can be said thus far is that man, with his finite mind, has not yet succeeded in lifting the veil that separates us from our loved ones.

But, we well recall that the star Neptune always was swinging from its orbit but that only a century ago man succeeded in discovering its ray of light. Atomic energy always existed but it was only yesterday that man was granted the revelation of atomic power. Some day we shall yet be enabled to employ the techniques of modern science and with its help catch a ray of light from the realm of the great beyond. In the meantime we pray: "Teach us, O Father, to speak with all our hearts, the words hallowed by centuries of faith. Teach us to acknowledge Thy sovereignty and thy wisdom with perfect trust that death is but the portal unto eternal life."

selves in check until the British forces have quitted."

A number of documents were presented with the aim of showing British connivance with the Arabs. One, marked "top secret" and alleged to have been signed by E. D. Horn on behalf of the Chief Secretary for Palestine, asked the district commissioner of Jerusalem to request the Arab leaders to keep their men out of sight. It noted that "armed Syrians and other members of the Arab Liberation Army" were becoming more and more in evidence around the Holy City, increasing the danger of clashes with the security forces.

The alleged prominent role of Brig. P. A. Clayton in the organization and subsequent planning of the Arab League was cited and British influence over King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan and his Arab Legion was described as almost absolute. King Abdullah has announced that he will personally lead his men into Palestine.

"Could King Abdullah carry out his threat without British knowledge and consent?" the memorandum asked. "The facts show that Trans-Jordan is a military appendage of the British and could not act without their knowledge and consent."

An annual British expenditure of $7,500,000 for the legion was cited. An alleged confidential dispatch, calling for British infantrymen to volunteer for the legion's training mission, was reproduced.

One alleged intelligence report said three or four German officers were with Arab forces near Jaffa and Lydda, though they refused to meet any British volunteers. Another, cited as evidence of pro-Arab sentiment among the British, described the Arab "invaders" in northern Palestine as well disciplined and "a considerable stabilizing influence."

Messages were quoted concerning the granting of visas to a Briton and an Egyptian to enter Palestine from Egypt to purchase "Army surplus stores." The implication of the memorandum was that these supplies would go to Arab forces.

Describing the arrival at Cyprus of two shiploads of Jews from Rumania in January, among whom Communist agents had been reported, the memorandum said a member of the Palestine Criminal Investigation Department had questioned five of the young men aboard. "When questions concerning Soviet ship and troop movements failed to elicit any information," the memorandum said, "the five immigrants were slapped and kicked and finally returned blindfolded from the interrogation center."

Two Views On The Formation Of A Palestine Legion Here

The United Zionist Council of Toronto condemned the Proposed Maple Leaf Legion for Palestine in the following statement, made by Rabbi Maurice L. Perlzweig, co-chairman of the National Public Relations Committee of the United Zionist Council of Canada, and public relations chairman for Ontario:

"In view of the confusion which has been created in the public mind by the announcement of the formation of a so-called 'Maple Leaf Legion for Palestine', we desire to make it clear that this project is absolutely unauthorized by any representative Jewish body. The Zionist movement regards all such unauthorized projects as especially damaging at the present moment when, both in the highest interests of the Jewish cause and in order to assist the United Nations, it is of the utmost importance that the Jewish people speak with one voice. All the Zionist groups and parties in the United Zionist Council have accordingly repeatedly warned their membership against the undesirability of lending any support to divisive movements which can only lead to confusion.

"The Jewish Agency for Palestine, with which the Zionist Organization is affiliated, is charged with the duty of dealing, on behalf of the Jewish people, with all the problems which affect the security of Jewish Palestine. Its authority in these matters is recognized by the Security Council and the Palestine Commission of the United Nations, with which bodies it is in uninterrupted consultation on the whole problem of security and the defence of the Jewish state. We cannot help but regard it as an irresponsible act, and one calculated to affect adversely the Jewish position, to launch without the slightest vestige of authorization either from the United Nations or the Jewish Agency, a project which purports to be a contribution to Jewish security at this time.

"The Jewish Delegation at Lake Success, which bears one of the gravest responsibilities in Jewish history, is entitled to the support of every section of the Jewish people. Dissident movements and projects, which seek to exploit the tensions of the present situation, are calculated to weaken the effectiveness of the work of that delegation. We are confident that the overwhelming majority of the Jews of this country join us in condemning any such dissident movement or project.

"We particularly deplore the fact that an appeal for funds in support of the so-called 'Maple Leaf Legion' has been made at a time when the whole of the Jewish community is engaged in the work of the United Jewish Appeal. The grave and urgent needs of the Jewish people in Palestine, in Europe and elsewhere, can only begin to be met if every Jew does his duty by the United Jewish Appeal. We address a most earnest appeal to all the members of our community not to be diverted from the discharge of their full obligation by appeals made by self-appointed groups, and to bear in mind that the only fund which is supported by every representative Jewish institution, and which covers the whole area of Jewish needs, is the United Jewish Appeal."

Samuel Dubiner, president of the Canadian League for A Free Palestine, which is endorsing the Maple Leaf Legion, said, "The response to their appeal has been highly gratifying, for it proved that amongst the masses there always has been a strong urge to help the brave defenders of the Holy Land. No Rabbi has a right at this crucial hour to condemn such Jews and non-Jews of the Maple Leaf Legion who answered the call. This is not a time for political bickering. Any leadership which denounces these people who are helping to assist our brave brethren in the Holy Land to bring about a unity for the achievement of peace and democracy both in Palestine and throughout the world, can only speak for themselves! When the brave fighting youth of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, Hagana and Stern groups are dying daily in a fight for their Homeland, how dare any individual or organization, especially Jewish, sound any note of disunity and disruption, use their unjustified influence to prevent any assistance?

"We know that the fighters themselves welcome our assistance.

"By our concentrated efforts we have reached out where others have failed, or been afraid to, and at this later hour awakened the conscience of both Jew and non-Jew to the injustice that has been meted out to our people. We can no longer stand by while terrified so-called leaders fail in the mission which has been theirs, and which they have failed to accomplish. It is in crisis such as this that people realize the failure of those whose authority has brought us to the brink of annihilation.

"In the names of the thousands of peoples, Jews and Christians alike, who are flocking to volunteer their services, and whose names are to be submitted to the United Nations, to the fighters for Freedom and Justice in Palestine, the Irgun, Hagana and Stern youths we say, 'Take heart, loyal and freedom-loving Canadians and freedom-loving peoples of the world over are coming to your assistance'.

"With the authority, and in the names of the thousands of members of the Hebrew Legion of England, the Legionna de Hebrew of France, of South Africa, the George Washington Legion of the United States, and the Maple Leaf Legion of Canada, and in the names of the thousands of non-Jews who both sympathize and understand, and who have come to the aid of our just cause in the Holy Land, we shall continue to mobilize all such resources that have not been reached by any political groups be they Zionist or otherwise."

ment was forthcoming from the FBI office.

Both young Untermeyer's father and mother were present at the arraignment. Mr. Untermeyer, remarking on his son's arrest, told reporters:

"This sort of thing is significant, with what is happening all over the world. Youth is outraged over the reversal of American policy and especially the overt aid being given the Arabs who are in open defiance of the United Nations. I think the kids are actually supporting the United Nations and the cause of liberty everywhere."

Mrs. Untermeyer, who is a lawyer, said she was national treasurer of the American League for a Free Palestine. Declaring she did not believe her son had committed any crime, she added:

"I am certain that my boy wouldn't do anything that would make me ashamed of him. He has always been deeply interested in the Palestine movement and has always been deeply political-minded. It is possible that he was influenced by my activities with the group to which I belong."

According to Herman Rondevitch, a partner in the fur concern, Alexander Gurvitch, vice-president of the company, had given the Zionist Youth Movement permission to wrap food and clothing bundles there. He said that Mr. Gurvitch was en route home from Paris, where he has been attending a Zionist conference.
